In America people have always been innovative. When certain machinery or products were not giving them the performance they needed, they put on their thinking caps and figured out new methods or new ways to improve already existing products, or to even create new ones. The Farming industry has drastically changed throughout history. Farmers have gone from using machinery ran by brute force and animal power all the way to machinery that now will self-diagnose its own problems and even operate itself. The advancements of technology have made a big impact on the way farmers operate in today's society. Thanks to perseverance and intelligence equipment and products continue to get better year by year. I've always admired the American Farmer and their will to do better and invent better products and ways of doing things. I'm proud of the accomplishments the farming industry has achieved in America. No matter what problems or obstacles have come up American Innovation has been able to prevail and find a solution.

Agricultural Vending Machines

The Sportsman's Source For Wildgame Feed

Instead of selling corn and other grain to an elevator, here's a new way to sell it direct to the public without having to deal with customers. Corn Xpress™ is a giant vending machine open 24/7 that accepts cash or credit cards.

A trio of Mississippi medical professionals came up with the idea thanks to their passion for the outdoors and hunting. It was the result of a brainstorming session between Dr. James Hall and Chip Chisholm, who's a registered nurse and avid deer hunter. Chisholm noted that it would be handy to have a vending machine for corn so he could make purchases day or night. In 2011, the partners hired an engineer to design two models – one that holds 260 bushels and one that holds 340. Medical sales representative, Dan Barnes, joined the new business, bringing organizational and marketing skills.

"Our user-friendly units dispense fresh grain on demand without an attendant," Barnes says. "Our business approach is to manufacture the Corn Xpress vending machines and sell distributorships. Buyers own the machine and set prices based on local markets."

Barnes says that until now people who need to buy corn for wildlife or to feed livestock must do so within typical business hours. That's a problem with today's busy schedules. With Corn Xpress they can buy at their own convenience 24/7.

Because the vending machines eliminate middlemen, the producer nets more profit, Barnes notes. In Mississippi, for example, corn sells at the elevator for about $3.50/bushel. Selling it through the vending machine for around $8-9 per bushel - farmers can increase gross profits per bushel. Corn Xpress is actually set up to sell by the pound in quantities of the owners preference; i.e. 30, 50, 200, 330lbs., depending on the bucket, barrel, or bags customers want filled.

An unloading auger feeds into trucks or trailers. Just a standard 120 AC volt plug and a concrete slab is required to run the vending machine, so it can be set up at any high traffic location, such as a convenience store, sporting goods store, or local co-op.

Barnes notes that Corn Xpress can also dispense other grains, pellets, and even rock salt.

Cost for the standard models are around $30,000.00, which includes setup, 1 year warranty, sales support, and maintenance. Depending on the location, return on investment averages 3 years, Barnes says.

The first two Corn Xpress agricultural vending machines were set up in Mississippi in 2014 and has expanded to over 120 machines in 16 states. Corn Xpress has added a small size standard machine that holds 176 bushels, a mobile machine, and a zoo machine. The mobile machine is the 176 bushel hopper mounted on a dual axle trailer that eliminates the need of a concrete slab and can be easily moved for refilling. The zoo machine is a 0.5 ton model that dispenses quantities of 3, 6, 12 oz (handfuls) of feed for the children feeding goats, pigs, chickens, etc. at petting zoos. Corn Xpress is ready to team up with more entrepreneurs in additional states who are looking to create additional income.

For more information, contact Dan Barnes (ph 601-573-9784); Or go to the company website at www.cornxpress.com or Facebook page.

SITE SPREADER

Stoltz Manufacturing Marking its
70+ Years Anniversary During 2017

Founder Christian U. Stoltzfus invented a unique lime spreader that made farmers more productive

MORGANTOWN, PA (August 30, 2017) – Stoltz Manufacturing (<http://www.stoltzmf.com/>), a leading manufacturer of construction and agricultural spreaders, marks its 70+ years anniversary during 2017, enjoying ongoing success with the breakthrough agricultural lime spreader invented by founder Christian Umble (“C.U.”) Stoltzfus in 1945 following the end of World War 2.

Today, Stoltz Manufacturing makes more than two dozen different agricultural and construction site spreaders—each based on the original concept—that are sold mostly in the United States, but also in other countries. Nearly 5,000 are in operation.

Many owners cite the durability and ruggedness of Stoltzfus spreaders, which operate for decades in the toughest of operating conditions, according to Bernard Hershberger, the company's president representing the third generation of the family.

Hershberger said in 1945, Stoltzfus was a Morgantown area 33-year-old farmer and a limestone quarry operator who sought a way to minimize the dust clouds generated when he spread lime on his fields. He built a truck-mounted drop spreader that distributed powered lime, bone meal and rock phosphate close to the ground through evenly spaced holes in metal booms, each extending 15 feet horizontally from the machine's center.

His first five-ton, tractor-drawn spreader initially sold to farmers in Pennsylvania Dutch country, allowed a faster, more accurate and efficient pattern over a wide area. Though his design has been updated and refined over 70 years, it remains the benchmark process for applying dry flowing materials, including lime which is essential to growing crops because it neutralizes the soil's acidity.

Stoltzfus' ingenuity continued. In 1976 he invented a wet lime spreader, enabling farmers to backhaul truckloads of inexpensive lime, stockpile it in their fields and apply it when conditions were favorable. The spreader was capable of applying four tons of wet lime per acre. Spreader sales doubled for the company.

Ten years later, Stoltzfus perfected his bulk material spreader that could accommodate not only lime, but also bulkier materials such as chicken litter, biosolids and compost—the first spreader to combine these fertilizers in a single machine.

In 1991, Stoltzfus introduced the Redhawk Ground Driven Spreader, the first with a dual-contact press wheel that combined the load breakout strength of his wet lime spreader with the accuracy of a ground-driven machine.

In 1995, the company introduced its second distinct product line of pneumatically loaded soil stabilization spreaders to the construction industry. Sold under the Stoltz Site Spreader® and brand name, they also revolutionized an industry as construction companies were finally able to apply large quantities of lime, cement, fly ash, quick lime and other materials accurately and with minimal dust. Site spreaders are mainly used for soil stabilization and remediation and full depth reclamation work.

A few years later, the company introduced yet another significant product, the Stoltz Site Spreader Controller, which combines all spreader control functions into a single interface. Initially designed for the company's low-dust dual auger style spreaders, it has been adapted to the conveyor chainstyle spreaders.

The company was incorporated as C.U. Stoltzfus Mfg., Inc. in 1968. The founder served as president and chairman of the board until his death in 2000 at the age of 88. In 2009, the name was changed to Stoltz Mfg., LLC.

Hershberger said that in addition to its spreader lines, Stoltz Manufacturing has established a large domestic and overseas dealer network and an excellent reputation for customer service and response to the need for parts. “Our website also has a significant amount of technical information to help owners use our spreaders, for example, application rate charts, truck chassis selection guides and tractor recommendations.”

But the bottom line, said Hershberger, is that today's Stoltz spreaders maintain the quality the founder built into the first one he sold. “We have a core group of quality employees who manufacture every Stoltz spreader in our plant in Morgantown. Our machines are built with the best steel, fully welded and manufactured to last a lifetime. ‘C.U.’ would be proud of how we have carried on his legacy.”

Amazing Double Duty Bale Mover & Self Feeder...

"My cows don't waste enough hay to lay on anymore." R.M., Dardanelle, AR

Wild Wind Angus — Staunton, VA

Excited cattlemen & women testify saving tons of expensive hay with the 22' BALE MOVER with quick-tach sliding feeder panels.

"It works great! My bales are small, so it took 14 bales to fill it, and they hardly wasted any at all. I am well satisfied and would recommend it to anyone interested in one." - D.B., Rising Sun, IN

"The Bale Carrier/Feeder is the best thing I ever bought for my farm. I love telling others about it." - A.M., Berryville, VA

"IT'S HARD TO BELIEVE, my cows waste less hay feeding eight bales... than from one bale in my other feeders!" - R.K., Hubbard Lake, MI

"My neighbors look on with envy when they see me haul 11 bales or feed 8 bales at a time. I have cut my chore time from 1/2 day to 2 hours." - S.M., Simpsonville, SC

"Since I have another full time job, I can't spend much time with my cattle. My bale feeder will feed 50 cows for about 5 days. It is hard to believe how well they clean up everything. Because of the drought last year, I am short of hay so I loaded 8 bales of wheat straw - when I checked on my cows later it was all cleaned up! There wasn't enough left to tell whether they were eating hay or straw." - B.A., Mantua, OH

Enjoy the Easy Way to Castrate Bulls

InoSol Co. LLC in El Centro, California, understands how much work and effort goes into processing cattle. For that reason, we designed a castration tool for sterilizing bulls that drastically reduces the time and cost that goes into the processing procedure.

Advantages of Delayed Castration

Delayed castration allows you to take advantage of the testosterone that naturally helps young bulls grow faster. Research shows that if you leave bull calves intact, they will typically gain 15% faster and will also convert feed 20% more efficiently than steer calves. The banding process is less stressful, especially when used on more mature animals.

"I didn't even think we had stray voltage!"

Roger Lange milks 100 head on his family dairy at Crofton, Nebraska. Until recently he was often forced to sell his fresh heifers because they wouldn't let down their milk.

"We called Stray Voltage Consulting, and Jerry found the problem within half an hour." Roger said. "I was very impressed with Jerry. He's a former REA guy, so he understands both the farmer and the electric company. Being able to work with both sides is a key component to his success."

"I haven't had a single problem with our fresh heifers since Jerry corrected our stray voltage problem. I would highly recommend Stray Voltage Consulting to anyone who thinks they might have stray voltage."

THE POWER OF SCIENCE WORKING IN YOUR FIELDS

- INCREASED FORAGE QUALITY
- GREATER CRUDE PROTEIN CONTENT
- IMPROVED FERTILIZER EFFICIENCY
- MORE PALATABLE AND DIGESTIBLE
- INCREASED TDN
- HIGHER RELATIVE FOOD VALUE

It's more than just dirt. The soil on your land should be teeming with beneficial bacteria and fungi. Unfortunately, many soils are deficient and struggle to grow quality, productive forages.

FROM THE LAB

For two decades we have pushed the limits to harness the POWER OF MICROORGANISMS for improving agricultural production and animal performance. We understand the fundamental role microorganisms play in growing productive crops, improving soil water efficiency, and increasing animal performance.

TO THE FIELD

When used in conjunction with your current growing practices, AGRIGAIN WITH SUMAGROW® INSIDE CAN ADD TO YOUR BOTTOM LINE. You can anticipate a decrease in fertilizer inputs of up to 50 percent, a 5 to 20 percent increase in quality forage yields, and improvement in your soil's water efficiency. In addition, the microbes contained in SumaGrow® are environmentally responsible and user-friendly, promoting plant, soil, and animal health.

M

ike Arnold, owner of Arnold Land and Cattle, understands what it takes to produce exceptional dairy and beef cattle. For the past 20 years, Mike has successfully served as a representative for Superior Livestock and has backgrounded more than 50,000 cattle.

Which is why three years ago, Arnold founded Agrigain, a company that offers fertilizer enhancing products that contain SumaGrow® for today's dairy farmer and cattleman. Agrigain products produce exceptional feed for herds, as well as support profitable, sustainable farming practices.

"I've been in the cattle business all my life," Arnold says, "Before I got involved with Agrigain with SumaGrow® inside, I watched the product being used for five years. I watched the tests and the trials because I needed to know that it really worked before venturing into starting a company that offers SumaGrow® products."

Mike field tested the product on his personal ranch and was so impressed by its performance that he began to market the product to help other cattlemen and farmers improve their yields and add to their bottom line.

SumaGrow® microbial technology was developed to work alongside conventional farming programs as a cost-efficient tool to increase fertilizer efficiency, reduce fertilizer inputs, and maximize yields. The microorganisms contained in SumaGrow® products were specifically selected for their abilities to improve nutrient mobilization, unlock soil bound nutrients, and sequester nitrogen.

SumaGrow® technology has been an industry leader for over a decade, and was developed by Bio Soil Enhancers, Inc., a global company that has invested over two decades in the research and development of biologicals. Field tested around the world on a variety of crops, soils, and climate conditions, SumaGrow® products have demonstrated the ability to reduce fertilizer inputs, maximize yields, and improve the soil's water-holding capacity. The technology of SumaGrow® has been recognized by Stockman GrassFarmer, Bison World, Corn and Soybean Digest, Forbes.com, and Popular Science for its superior technology and product performance.

CrossFlow Aeration

CrossFlow Aeration is the revolutionary system that moves air horizontally from the bin wall louvered columns to the central perforated GrainAir Tube.

Cross Flow gives you lower static pressure, smaller aeration fan, less electrical power and less time required. The air moves through the grain bin faster than any other aeration system.

Powerless Aeration-GrainAir Tube

A perforated tube that hangs from the grain bin filler cap and gives you powerless aeration by releasing any heat that builds up in your bin using natural convection. Prevent heating, spoilage and grain bugs.

Aeration Booster Tube

A perforated tube that hangs from the grain bin filler cap and decreases your aeration time. Once aeration fan is shut off, the Aeration Booster continues to release any heat still in the grain using natural convection.

Built To Last!!

I first saw a Brown Weight Valve at a local dairy farm. The dairyman told me how impressed he was with how the valve performed. A few months later I met Garry at the World Ag Expo and he showed me how the valves worked. They were extremely simple and built to last. The dairyman that was with me said "get me ten of those" At that time I set up to be a Dealer. We have found that once a dairyman gets one of the Brown Weight Valves it won't be long until he calls and orders a lot more.

How Radiant Heating Works

Radiant heat works in the same way as the sun. Using electromagnetic waves, radiant heat warms all solid objects and surfaces in its path.

Mounted overhead, infrared tube heaters produce heat that is directed downwards to a low level by the reflectors.

Radiant Heat:

- Emitted by a hot surface
- Travels in straight lines
- Passes through air without heating it
- Absorbed by cooler, solid objects

MI GREENHOUSE

Fiberglass
Greenhouse Sales

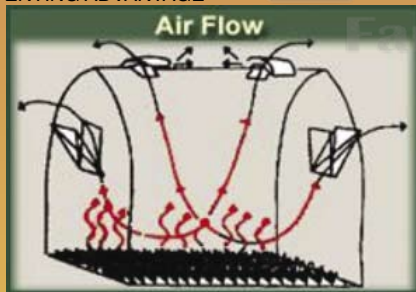

989-544-2443

We are proud to offer quality molded fiberglass greenhouses in 3 sizes – our 8 foot “Hobby” Model, our 15 foot “Standard” Model, and our 30 foot “Homesteader” Model. These greenhouses come to you as a 1 piece unit that requires NO assembly, requires NO electricity for the solar operated roof vents, and requires NO maintenance.

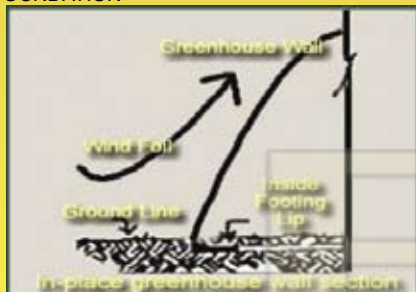

We have most units in stock and ready for delivery from our Central Michigan location. Our Homesteader Model has options and is made to order so please allow 2-3 weeks for delivery. Our technicians deliver and install the greenhouse at your location so you don't have to do anything except decide where you want the greenhouse placed.

VENTING ADVANTAGE

The solar venting feature of the Simply Solar Greenhouse is only a part of the ventilation engineering. The front door has a large drop-down window. There is another sizable window in the rear wall of the greenhouse. The 2 or 4 generous roof vents are installed offset so when open, they will capture a breeze regardless from which direction it blows. The solar venting mechanicals are distinctive in that the cylinders are filled with beeswax which melts and expands when warmed causing the venting cylinder to expand. This action causes the vent covers to open in direct proportion to the inside temperature. The temperature at which the vents operate can be loosely set by the customer to customize the application. This is a great time and worry saver especially in the spring and fall when the daytime temperatures vary greatly from the morning and evening temperatures. You don't have to be home to open and close the vents and the greenhouse won't overheat or overcool.

FOUNDATION

Our greenhouses come complete and can be installed directly on the ground without a costly cement foundation or treated wood frame. It is because the Simply Solar Greenhouse has a stabilizing lip completely surrounding the inner dimension. When our technicians bring a greenhouse out to you, they prepare the location by excavating a trench about 10 inches wide and 4 inches deep with a small rototiller. The trench is leveled and the greenhouse footing is put in it and the soil is put back over the footing. It is a simple enough operation that if you have to move the greenhouse, it can be done relatively easily. It can be moved to a new location on your property or a new property all together. Without a required foundation, it is often considered a temporary building and doesn't require a zoning permit. The size often meets Home Owner Association guidelines as well. With the ground as a foundation, you give added strength to the walls. The ground foundation also provides growing space, evaporative cooling, heating and a humidity source. A layer of organic mulch in the greenhouse will act as a cold barrier, increase humidity and will work as mulch. Stepping stones can run down the center. Additionally, the buried footing is a deterrent to burrowing rodents but acts to maintain a seal between the ground and greenhouse to eliminate any opportunity for the wind to gain lifting power. See diagram above.

STRUCTURAL INTEGRITY

Our engineers have thought of everything. The one-piece molded shell is made from durable fiberglass which has a smooth exterior that is weather resistant. Summer dust washes off in the rain and winter snow and ice slide off preventing excessive weight build-up.

The unique characteristic of the Gothic arch shape makes the greenhouse very stable in high winds. The ribbed, one-piece construction is strong and leaves no joints or seams to catch the wind. Sideways movement is prevented by inseting the greenhouse base perimeter 4 inches below the ground surface which will foil winds up and over the greenhouse. The arch shape converts much of the lateral wind energy downward on the windward side and reduced the vacuum on the leeward side. See diagram above.

THE SOLAR PRISM EFFECT

The Prism Effect is another advantage of our Gothic arch design. This Prism Effect is created by our manufacturing process, our special resin formula and the arch design. In producing a greenhouse, millions of chopped fiberglass quality fiberglass fibers are bonded together with the special hot resin mix. The layers are rolled and pressed together making a uniform thickness. As sunlight enters the greenhouse, it is reflected and refracted by the chopped fiberglass fibers all around the greenhouse space. This means that on cloudy days, it is actually brighter inside than outside. It also means that there are no shadows inside the greenhouse since the light is bounced into every nook and cranny. And, there is no framing or foundation obstacles to cause dark spots. Because there are no shadows, you can grow on multiple levels within the greenhouse. You can plant directly in the ground soil or raised beds, in containers on the ground, on benches, shelves, lattice, and even hanging overhead from optional misting system plumbing or optional hanging plant frames. Our resin formula is formulated to contain a special UV blocking agent to protect your plants from harmful UV rays. UV is bad for people and bad for plants by burning them and causing them to shut down and fail. See diagram above.

WHAT ABOUT WINTER?

“Winter” means a little something different for everyone. And the only fair answer to this question, although vague, is that it depends on the year and where exactly you live. Our greenhouses, while great for absorbing heat from the sun and releasing it back into the greenhouse space after dark, most likely will require an auxiliary heat source if you plan to grow in it during the entire year. You can minimize the amount of heating that has to be done by selecting the proper plant varieties for your area, investigate the minimum temperature that the plants need for growth, and perhaps minimize the amount of space that you need to heat by using heated seed mats, row covers and/or plant cloches. Contact us with specific questions for your location and we will be able to give you a more specific answer.

ANIMAL COMFORT IS OUR TOP PRIORITY

BASIC STRAY VOLTAGE: AS LEARNED IN THE FIELD

Stray voltage is defined as the voltage between two animal contact points. This is normally between the earth and an object that is connected to the farm electrical neutral/grounding system. By definition this voltage is less than 10 volts. On all large animal facilities having stray voltage, this is normally found at water fountains. We also find it in dairy facility parlors.

What voltage levels are of concern? Some of the guidelines that came out in Minnesota and other parts of the United States in the early 80's were as follows: Less than 0.5 volt – usually not a problem, between 0.5 and 1.0 volt – monitor the situation, Over 1.0 volt – correct. These measurements were to be made with a 500 ohm resistor between the voltmeter leads. The reason for the 500 ohm resistor is that researchers believe that the electrical current through the animal causes the reactions. A resistance of 500 ohms is representative of a dairy cow's resistance. The above voltage levels, with 500 ohms resistance, give the current believed to be a problem. My experiences in the field over the last 33 years agree that less than 0.5 volt is usually not a problem. If the voltage level is over 0.5 volt, it is a problem that needs to be corrected. My experiences have also led me to believe that the voltage itself is a problem. I do my measurements without a resistor, which I feel better represents what affects animals. Later I will cover some stray voltage that would not be detected if measured with a resistor.

JERRY LUSH

Based in South Dakota, I have performed stray voltage testing for over 30 years. Cases have involved dairy cattle, beef cattle, swine, sheep, goats, horses, and people. My goal is to provide relief to the animals, resulting in less stress, higher production, lower SCC, and better animal health. If you're looking for high quality and personal service, you've come to the right place. I'll give you the attention and personal service you expect and deserve. I offer the best in investigation and analysis of your stray voltage situation.

It has a strong history of success documented by not sales, but producers who use the product.

Mix 30 is a liquid feed that is a high energy, protein supplement created from a combination of corn and soy based co-products. It was developed in 1992 and today is marketed through Agridyne, LLC. Mix 30 is marketed in U.S., Canada, and Puerto Rico. Mix 30 is sold through dealers, positioned across the U.S. with ten manufacturing facilities, 12 rail-offloading facilities and an extensive distribution network.

Mix 30 has unmatched versatility and works in all ruminant diets and it is very easy to feed. It can be fed in open-top, free choice containers, or mixed into grain or hay in a total mixed ration. Mix 30 is easy, convenient and has a low labor requirement, which makes it even more desired by livestock owners. In addition, cattle operations of all segments have found the product key to improving quality and adding to the bottom line of their operations.

Mix 30 contains ingredients that research has shown to enhance reproductive performance and increase calf survivability and performance. Mix 30's nutrient combination is designed to help the animal utilize forages, especially poor quality forages, more efficiently.

Making the Right Choice for My Future

By Kristin O’Connell, Ag Business Major,
Iowa Lakes Community College

As a young person, my parents emphasized education and a strong work ethic. Even though doing homework wasn’t my favorite, it was expected. This taught me the value of working toward a goal and accomplishing it with pride.

In my teen years, I worked at a local drive-in. The job gave me spending money and taught me responsibility, but more importantly, made me realize it was not what I wanted to spend my life doing. I knew a college degree would open new doors and opportunities for me, so I enrolled in the Ag Business program at Iowa Lakes Community College.

I wondered if Iowa Lakes was the best place for me, but after the first week, I knew I’d made the right choice. The professors at Iowa Lakes take an interest in my development and the on-the-job training strengthened my decision that I was in the right program.

I am focused and in a program that I love, and still having fun with the many activities offered at Iowa Lakes. With support from my family, friends, instructors and the scholarships I’ve received, I know I will make the most of my education and my future.

Coulters Convert Chisel Plow To Strip Till Machine

“A coulter kit from Ron’s Manufacturing converts any chisel plow to a tool that prepares perfect seed beds for planting,” says inventor and owner Ron Tschetter.

Ron’s coulter kits have stronger bearings than other machines on the market to withstand tough working conditions and high horsepower tractors. Here are some differences between Ron and his competitors.

The competitors use a 1 1/4 inch or 1 3/16 inch tapered bearing compared to the 1 3/8 inch size that Ron uses. Also, one of the competitors has a cap and strap mounting that has to be removed to tighten the tapered bearings. The other competitor has non-greasable bearings mounted lower on the shaft. Ron’s kits have four larger, flat ball bearings that are pressed into the hub and a cold rolled shaft. That way when the bearings are worn some of it won’t ruin the hub or the shaft like a self aligning bearing. When a self aligning bearing gets dry it spins in the hub and ruins the hub. A pressed in bearing in a steel tubing won’t do this.

The strength and durability of Ron’s kits is unsurpassed on the market. The bearing center support is greasable and the shaft is made of a cold rolled steel and drilled for a roll pin to the hub plate.

The outer shield is cup shaped and goes over the bearing center so that weeds and other materials can’t get into the bearing seal. The hub plate is held on with a 3/4 inch bolt and collar.

In the fall the coulter can be used to lightly till the soil and incorporate and size residue, setting the stage for the spring planting season. It’s also a practical way to dry out wet soils. The Vertical Tillage Coupler Kit Attachment also works well in no-till, conservation tillage, and conventional tillage operations. The wavy coulter design loosens and fluffs the soil so it warms more quickly in spring and breaks the crust which energizes the seedbed for maximum growth and yield potential.

The coulter kits also allow shallow seedbed preparation, which decreases the risk of excess soil density below the root zone.

Operating at a field speed of 6 to 10 mph allows quick mixing of manure and soil to prevent loss of nutrients and to control odor. The coulter setup can also be used for very shallow incorporation of fertilizer and certain herbicides. The coulter kits come with 18 inch earthen hardened boron blades with 13 waves but larger or smaller blades can also be mounted. All blades are spaced 6 inches on center. The waves are 1 inch apart.

UBLY BEAN KNIFE Manufacturing, Inc.

UBLY BEAN KNIFE and UBLY PEANUT DIGGER BLADES GIVE YOU the Advant-EDGE!

Hundreds of hard edible bean farmers have been taking advantage of the Ubyly Bean Knife for over sixty years.

Attention bean, seed, and organic farmers

While maintaining the highest standard of quality, Ubyly bean knives are still the best way to cut the tap roots and get a higher quality bean while producing fluffier windrows, reducing labor, reducing stones and dirt in windrows, and aiding in your combine’s overall performance.

There has been some speculation about the acceptability of the direct harvest system due to the high losses of beans, therefore keep using the Ubyly Bean Knife for the best possible cut and quality for your money. Do what hundreds have already done. Make Ubyly Your Advant-Edge!

Peanut farmers rejoice!

Ubyly Peanut Digger Blade Manufacturing, Inc., a subsidiary of Ubyly Bean Knife Mfg., Inc., received a patent for the Ubyly Lifting Fingers that are flat and curved upward to better guide peanuts up on to the top of the elevator during the digging process.

Used with their patented Ubyly Digger Blades, which have a thin, hard-faced edge to stay sharp and always cut the tap root, the lifting fingers and the smaller diameter Ubyly 6-inch m Elevator Idler Wheels raise the peanuts without turbulence and in a smooth, uniform ribbon to the top of the elevator.

Budding Weeder Co. was founded around 1950 by Case Budding and JG Sarver. From the start their goal has been to develop machinery to reduce the labor hours required to grow produce and nursery stock. Over the years many different machines were designed and manufactured. Two designs have withstood the test of time, the basket weeder and the rubber finger weeder. Both of these machines are still available, 60 years later and still made in

Dutton Michigan. The new machines are stronger and have more steel on them than the ones made years ago, however we still receive an occasional parts order for machines from the late 50's this is a very interesting machine that has been in use by growers since the 1950's. 1/4 inch spring wires around about a 13 inch diameter cylinder works the soil between your plant rows cultivating or weeding. The soil conditioning effect is very nice, some growers use the machines before seeding their crops to give a nice bed for weed seeds to sprout first. What makes the wheel hoe action is 2 sprockets holding back the rotary tilling of the wire basket cylinder. One is a 18 tooth sprocket on one axle. The other is a 10 tooth sprocket on the rear axle. This lets the front and rear axles of wires rotating in the soil work against each other. Like an egg beater only 1/4 inch round spring wire has a better self cleaning action. With the budding weeder you may travel at higher speeds throwing less dirt into the rows than dragging shovel sweeps type cultivators. These machine are used by vegetable, produce, tree nursery growers, etc

WILLHITE

SEED INC.

For over a century, Parker County, Texas has been noted for its excellent quality of watermelons. T.A. Willhite began growing melons in the 1900s around Poolville, in the northern part of Parker County. It was in 1904

November 1962, has extensive knowledge of the many aspects of watermelon growing, "...both the science and the art." To many in the industry, Don is deservedly known as "Mr. Watermelon." Our office manager, Carole

Clark, came onboard in 1975 and excels at customer service. that this county first achieved distinction by winning first prize for both the size and quality of its watermelons at the World's Fair in St. Louis, Missouri. About a year later, friends suggested that Mr. Willhite start selling seed. He sold a few melons that year and 77 pounds of seed. From that humble beginning, Willhite Melon Seed Farms began.

As many new challenges face the seed industry and our nation in general, Willhite Seed remains committed to our historic standard of excellence. Our roots are firmly planted in our heritage while our eyes are focused on the future. We pledge to maintain our dedication to our heirloom varieties of seeds, especially our widely acclaimed watermelon seed lines. We further pledge to continue our efforts to develop and perfect new and superior varieties going forward. We appreciate our long term customers and our new buyers as well; so in order to provide you with more of what you like about Willhite Seed, we are beginning a program geared toward improved interaction between each of you and all of us here at Willhite Seed. In order to help us serve you better, we would greatly appreciate you taking a few minutes to answer the following few questions:

Mr. Willhite originally operated the business in a building at his home, but as business grew, he moved into the First State Bank of Poolville office, which had closed during bad economic times. During this time, "Tom Watson" and "Stone Mountain" were popular varieties of watermelons. Mr. Willhite passed away, and his daughter, Miss Clara Lee Willhite became owner and manager in the 1940s. This was a period of growth for the company during which Miss Clara expanded the business not only from coast to coast, but also worldwide. Clara Lee WillhiteShe continued as owner and manager until her death in the 1960s. Upon her death, the business was acquired by two of her employees, Vaughn Mader and Gene Hodges. They continued the Willhite tradition and later sold the business to Dr. Lee C. Coffey in 1969. Dr. Coffey expanded the product line to carry a more complete line of garden vegetables and other supplies. Melon varieties continued to be developed and improved and a hybrid breeding program was begun.

- What you would like to see in the future from Willhite Seed;

BALEBUSTERS

THE HAYBUSTER ADVANTAGE
Haybuster has been manufacturing high quality equipment for the cattle rancher for over 50 years. Bale processors have been a huge part of that business for the past 35 years. The original bale processor was designed with a chain table for rotating the bale. We are still using that same design today. It is available in all 5 of our models and it has been imitated by several of our competitors. The chain table is positioned in the shredder chamber at an angle. This allows the bale to roll toward the rotor and up against the slugsbars. When the chain table is engaged, it rolls the bale up against the slugsbars & hammers, allowing the hay to be discharged from the machine in a consistent and continuous flow.

IQ Milking Unit GEA
A smarter way to milk cows

IQ: The smart choice for modern milking efficiency
Introducing a revolutionary concept for milking unit technology

As the first truly new design of the 21st century, the IQ offers all of these benefits in one milking unit:

- Maximum milk quality — smarter vacuum control significantly reduces milk contamination. You won't believe how clean your filters are.
- Improved udder health — with four separate teat chambers, there is no direct of teat-to-teat cross-contamination.
- Quieter operation — the automatic vacuum shifting system makes for virtually noise-free milking.
- Easy maintenance — shells, liners and air dividers can be pre-assembled to allow liner changes in minutes instead of hours.
- Faster milk out times — improved vacuum stability increases flow rates and the sharper angle of the milk chamber speeds flow to the milk line.
- More reliable performance — the slim design is harder to kick off. Greater flexibility and optimum weight means a perfect fit for virtually any udder shape. Plus, better unit alignment means less unit slip and squeaks.
